The General Convention of U. D. C., at Savannah is largely attended, Nashville is making a strong pull for the 1915 convention.

Two well known doctors of Western Kentucky died this week—Dr. F. V. Kimbrough, at Guthrie, and Dr. Amos Davis, at Owensboro.

The National Woman's Suffrage Association is in session in Nashville and has announced a complete change of policy. Instead of asking for suffrage they will demand it and will blacklist politicians who oppose them.

The Valley Bank, at Phoenix, the largest financial institution in Arizona, failed to open its doors Thursday. The state bank examiner is in charge. The bank had deposits aggregating $2,000,000 but, according to statements made, had less than $30,000 on hand at the close of business Wednesday.

John W. Holmes, of Paducah, but for many years superintendent of the old Owensboro Water Works company, died at Frankfort Tuesday afternoon, after a serious accident, while in the discharge of his duties of consulting engineer in the construction of portions of the Frankfort water works.

Senator Ollie M. James will be the principal speaker at the annual Harvest Home dinner of the Louisville Commercial Club at the Seelbach on the night of November 19. Other speakers will be Judge Henry S. Barker, Judge Robert C. Kinkhead, Dr. Francis Irwin, pastor of the Fourth avenue Presbyterian church, and Charles W. Metcalfe, of Pineville, Ky.

Bradley Wilson was sent to jail for 30 hours Thursday, by Judge Birkhead, at Owensboro, charged with contempt of court in writing a letter criticizing the action of the grand jury in indicting him for conspiracy last June. Wilson refused to apologize and his defense was that the offense was not committed within the presence of the court, which the court held to be insufficient. Flowers and fruit were sent to Wilson during his incarceration.

Commissioner of Agriculture J. W. Newman ordered his offices removed from Frankfort to Louisville yesterday to fight the cattle plague. He quarantined Henry county, gave notice that no public cattle sales shall be held and said hunting would be prohibited if the disease was not soon checked. Vigorous protests against the recent Government order that sound livestock in infected herds should be spared were made yesterday by Chicago men interested in the eradication of foot and mouth disease. A big cattle sale advertised for Monday in Mt. Sterling has been prohibited.

Ecuador and Colombia have been warned emphatically by Great Britain and France that the allies will not countenance further violations of neutrality by these South American states. Just what the infractions consisted of has not been made public, but at the French embassy it was said positive proof was in the hands of the French government. The British government charges that the Galapagos islands, off the coast of Ecuador have been used practically as a coaling base for German ships, and that wireless stations in both Ecuador and Colombia have been giving German cruisers news of the whereabouts of the British fleet. In fact, responsibility for the defeat of the British cruisers in the battle off the Chilean coast is laid by British officials to some extent at the doors of Ecuador and Columbia.

A PARTIAL QUARANTINE

Established In Poultry Shipments on Account of Foot and Mouth Disease.

APPLIES TO LIVE SHIPMENTS.
Receipts From Tennessee Points Are Prohibited In Government Order.

Yesterday morning H. C. Pierce, of the Food Research Laboratory, of Washington, arrived in the city and ordered the Fox Bros. Co., to receive no more shipments of live fowls from the state of Tennessee, on account of a foot and mouth disease quarantine in that state. They were also directed to quit buying at Trenton, Ky., which is within eight miles of the state line. The order caught them with 3,000 turkeys at Bellbuckle, Tenn., about to be shipped here to be killed. A conference was being held yesterday afternoon with Mr. Pierce to decide what to do with these fowls. They can be shipped if packed, but they have no facilities for killing them at Bellbuckle. The spread of the quarantine in this cattle disease threatens wholesale disturbance to the business of this big concern, which expected to handle $100,000 worth of poultry in the next six weeks.

They have assurances that they can still receive poultry here today and Monday and can pack what they have on hand, but cannot ship any live fowls. They were shipping carload lots of turkeys every day, not having begun slaughtering here yet. Now they must begin killing at once and can only ship dressed poultry to points out of Kentucky. The prospects are that the bottom will drop out of poultry prices, if the wholesale market is demoralized. The ruling price is now 11 cents for turkeys and 8 cents for chickens.

INSOLENCE RESENTED

President Objects To Tone Used By Boston Negro In Address on Rights.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Offended by the tone and manner of their chairman, W. M. Trotter of Boston, President Wilson ended an interview with a delegation of negroes, who called at the White House to protest against race segregation in government departments, with a warning that if the negroes wanted to see him again they would have to get another spokesman. The President said he had not been addressed in such fashion since he entered the White House.

Trotter disputed a statement that there had been danger of friction and took issue with the President. He declared the negro people did not seek charity or assistance, but held that they had equal rights with the whites and that these rights should be respected.

Mr. Wilson waited for the protest to end. Then he told the delegation that he could not discuss the matter further.

OPEN SEASON

For Quail Begins in Kentucky Monday.

Quail shooting in Kentucky begins next Monday and will continue until Jan. 1. In this county birds are reported scarce, especially in some sections, notwithstanding the fact that every condition has been conducive to the growth and development of quail since brooding time.

County Clerk Harris had issued up to noon yesterday forty hunting licenses for this month. This number will likely be largely increased today.

Critical Stage Reached in Battle in West Flanders and Few Days or Hours Should Produce Decisive Result In Fight

THE LINE OF ALLIES STILL HOLDS FIRM.
Russian Army Continues to Fight its Way Into East Prussia—Austrians Are Opposing Any Advance In South Along San River.

London, Nov. 13.—A critical stage in the battle in West Flanders has been reached and the next few days, or hours, should produce something decisive.

The Germans with all the forces at their command have continued to attack the British and French who hold the line between Dixmude and Ypres, but except for the capture of Dixmude, which occurred Tuesday, and some little progress around Ypres, they have not made material advance.

The French official report says all the attacks have been repulsed. The Germans no longer are utilizing green troops in this region but have brought up the pick of their army, including some Prussian guards, who attempted the offensive movement against the British but without success.

Both sides express satisfaction with the progress of the battle. Berlin says the allies' attacks have been repulsed and that their own attack is making headway; while in London and in Paris it is felt that as long as the allies can hold the line of the canal from Nieuport to Ypres their position is strong.

The Russian army under General Rennenkampff is fighting its way into East Prussia and has taken Johannisburg, which is on the railroad from Lyck to Soldak, both of which towns are in Russian hands. This gives to Russia the control of an important railway line which skirts the frontier in German territory and several branch railways running into the interior.

The central army, which drove the Germans back from the Vistula, has had only unimportant engagements.

ANOTHER BIG ENTERPRISE CASE REVERSED

Residence of M. C. Forbes Being Converted Into Apartments.

The large and handsome residence property of Mr. M. C. Forbes, on South Main street, is to be converted into an apartment house. To that end an addition is being erected on the rear or west side, which will be made into kitchens for the several apartments. There will be four apartments of four or five rooms each, with upper and lower rooms in each one. Mr. Forbes will retain one of the apartments for his own use. The residence is new and commodious and one of the most elegantly appointed homes in the city and in one block of the business section.

This was an indictment charging the railroad with not furnishing proper and adequate traveling accommodations in their trains for their colored passengers. It was alleged that the separate compartments for colored people were, in many instances, too small to seat the passengers and that only one closet was furnished for both male and female passengers.

The indictment was returned on evidence furnished by a number of the leading negro citizens of Christian county and at the trial of the case the jury returned a verdict finding the railroad company guilty and assessing a fine of $500. The decision holds that the law was not violated.

Act Held Void.

The Court of Appeals has held the act reducing railroad fares to 25 cents a mile to be void, because of the absence of an enacting clause to the bill.

CARRANZA AND VILLA

To Fight It Out In A Fresh Revolution, Battle at Queretaro Impending

GONZALES TO FIGHT VILLA.
Decisive Battle Near Queretaro Expected Within the Next Few Days.

Mexico City, Nov. 13.—Gen. Pablo Gonzales, commanding Mexican forces at Queretaro, loyal to General Carranza, has notified the war department that General Villa was converging his entire army at Lagos, midway between Aguascalientes and Queretaro. Gonzales stated his forces now numbered 40,000 men, while reinforcements were arriving from other places. Villa's strength was not given in the message from Gonzales.

It is believed here a decisive battle will be fought in the vicinity of Queretaro within a few days, as the concentration of Villa's troops at Lagos is said to be a reply of Gonzales' recent ultimatum that he and other anti-Carranza generals resign their commands and leave the country immediately.

UNITED STATES MARINE BAND

Famous Musical Organization 113 Years Old To Be Here Monday.

The Famous United States Marine Band, which will visit Hopkinsville next Monday, Nov. 16th, at the Union Tabernacle, is 113 years old. Today the greatest military musical organization in the western hemisphere and the peer of the European bands, it was at first a drum and fife corps.

When the Marine Corps was established under an act of Congress approved by President John Adams in 1798, the law provided for drum and fife corps, sixteen drummers and sixteen fifers. For a long time there was no regularly recognized leader. First one member and then another would act as fife major, but the American desire for progress became manifest in this connection, and musicians were imported from abroad to supplement the severely martial style of instruments to which the band had been limited.

Italy provided a group of musicians, who soon succeeded in placing the band on something of an artistic footing. Since that day its prestige has steadily increased until it is now one of the largest and most splendidly equipped Governmental organization for musical performances the world has ever known.

She Dropped It.

A marriage license has been issued for W. T. Ray, a Confederate veteran of Huntsville, Ala., and Mrs. Louise J. Hillard, widow of a veteran. Mrs. Hillard has been drawing a pension from the state until recently when she was notified that because of the fact that her husband's name was not on the final muster roll of the company with which he served, the pension could no longer be paid. She appealed to Ray as one of the comrades of her husband to help her furnish proof of his service. Ray suggested that she drop the pension question and marry him and she is said to have consented.

ELKS OPERA BIG SUCCESS

Capacity House Heard It and Repetition Performance To-night.

BIGGEST HIT OF THE SEASON.
Cleverness and Originality of The Show Surpassed All Expectations.

Hopkinsville for many years has been famous for the delightful amateur productions that have been given from time to time, but without doubt "The Traveling Man," presented last night under the auspices of Elks Lodge No. 545 far outshone them all. Remarkable for the originality of plot and the beautiful songs, the opera delighted the vast audience from start to finish. The play and lyrics were written by Boyle Woolfolk, of Danville, Ky., a son of former editor Henry E. Woolfolk, and no words can express the credit due to this talented young Kentuckian, who was present in person last night. Mr. Woolfolk is a popular Elk and has scored a wonderful success in his production.

As to the portrayal of the parts, in every instance, it was superb. Well might the production, just as it was seen last night, grace any professional stage. The principals thoroughly entered into the spirit of the parts and portrayed their lines in a capable and accurate manner.

The solos were rare gems and among the songs scoring big hits were "The Reason We Love" by Miss Nell Espie; "The Traveling Man," Jack Tobin and Chorus; "Funny Hats," by Mrs. Ira D. Smith; "Song Sue" by Tom Underwood; "Miss Liberty" by Miss Alice Merritt and Chorus, all in the first act.

The hits in the 2nd act were "Dixie Daisies" by Mrs. Smith assisted by Misses Bertha Cayce, L. Tate, E. Gossett and Sadie Buck and Messrs. Joe Day, Robert, Keene and Trice Waller; "Easy Street" by Will Wicks and pony ballet; "Daisy," Mr. Kuykendall and summer girls; "My New Motor Boat" J. L. Shrode and Chorus, and "That Kentucky Rag" by Mr. Tobin and Chorus.

In the last act "Nobody Smiles Over Me" was a pathetic ditty by Alf Eales and Miss Agnes Flack sweetly sang "Ballooning" assisted by the company.

The play will be presented again to-night in order to give those chance to see it who were unable to secure seats for the first performance. The program committee consisting of Joe Slaughter, John Stite, Geo. DeTreville, Chas. McKee and Dr. Fierstein are entitled to unbounded praise for promoting such a distinct success.

Christmas Feature.

The December Woman's Home Companion makes a special feature of ideas for Christmas. These ideas are presented not only in the various Housekeeping, Cooking, Fashion and Handicraft departments, but in addition there is a two page spread containing 1,000 answers to the question, "What Shall I Give for Christmas?" These answers are divided and classified under the heads—what to give to mother, father, grandmother, grandfather, daughter, the maid, and so on.

REV. GREGSTONPastor of West Union Baptist Church, at Gracey, Who Died
Aug 28, 1914.The following obituary of Rev. C.
H. Gregston is from the Western Reporter:Collin Hodge Gregston, son of Rev.
William and Mrs. Elizabeth Gregston, was born February 22nd, 1854, at Princeton, Caldwell County, Ky.
He professed religion in early life and united with the White Sulphur Springs Baptist church of his native County. This church at her business meeting in June 1875, licensed him to preach, and by this church he was ordained to the full work of the Gospel ministry December 13, 1879; R. W. Morehead, J. H. Spurin, and Wm. Gregston constituting the ordinating council. The record shows that he had been an honored and successful student in Bethel College, Russellville, Ky., two years, September, 1877, to June, 1879, just preceding his ordination.He was the pastor of several churches in Caldwell and adjacent counties from the date of his ordination until the fall of 1882 when he entered our Seminary at Louisville, where he was a student during the term of 1882 and 1883. A friend from Louisville writes: "A more quiet and gentle spirit never entered or left our Seminary." On leaving the Seminary he located in Union County, serving churches in Union and Henderson counties. He was married to Miss Goochi Graves April 14, 1886, and settled in Morganfield, where he became pastor of the Morganfield church and carried forward their unfinished building to completion.No period of the writer's life furnishes sweeter memories than the years spent in their happy home at Morganfield, October 1887-1888.
Their only child, Flora Freeman, born August 5, 1887, was taken from them August 21, 1890. The death of this darling little girl saddened but did not embitter the lives of these fond parents; sermons already abounding in tenderness became more tender and pathetic now that little Flora had gone away.After a twenty-one years' stay in Morganfield he goes, on account of failing health, to become pastor of the Watonga church, Watonga, Oklahoma, but returned after fourteen months to locate in Clay, Ky., dividing his time between the Clay church and Rock Springs. Two years later he located at Gracey, Christian County, Ky., dividing his time equally between the churches at Gracey and Cerulean Springs. It was here he waged fierce war against the liquor forces. In the first election prohibition lost by a small majority. When another election was appointed for September 21, Brother Gregston sent word to the temperance people "There is in Gracey a prohibition cottage, on its porch a prohibition cot and on this cot a prohibition preacher, this preacher is notable to leave his bed, please send people to him." They did come in great numbers, and it is believed that Brother Gregston's words from the pulpit of a sick bed won the fight. Not a few believed his sufferings and death modified the spirit of greed and hate in the hearts of many liquor advocates. "Hang crepe on my door," he said, "if only the white flag of proh bition may float over Gracey." Prohibition won in Gracey by forty-eight votes September 21, 1914, though it lost in Christian County as a unit. It would seem that the days of various sufferings have not passed.Bro. Gregston died at his home in Gracey of malignant kidney trouble, accompanied by complications, August 28, 1914; was buried by the side of his little Flora in Morganfield, Ky., August 29, the funeral being in charge of Pastor Kennard and the writer. A short but sweet and comforting service having been held at the home in Gracey by Brethren Hill and Gordon.C. H. Gregston was the embodiment of honor and was too sincere to be politic. He wore that badge of unrelenting hate for all shams, quacks and pretenders. He was so constituted as to love wife, child and home with love unalloyed; faithful to his friends, forgiving to his enemies; he had a smile for all and malice for none. J. always could not grow in his unfeeling heart, neitherpresence. His fine personality, mellow voice, graceful gesture, select language and unabashed imagination, together with intense spirituality and a profound knowledge of the Bible constituted him a master in the pulpit. When necessary, he preached the distinctive doctrine of Baptists and did so without apology.
In his denunciation of the liquor powers he neither feared the threat of nor courted the laudation of friend.We condole with these churches of his last charge—Cay, Gracey and Cerulean Springs—which he loved so tenderly—as well as with all churches having had the honor of his pastoral care. We deeply sympathize with his brothers, sisters and all kindred and friends commanding them to the comforts of that glorious Gospel with which he comforted the thousands. Not in the history of matrimony has a wife been more loyal. May memories of twenty-eight years spent by his side in life's dearest relation assuage her grief and banish her loneliness. Years in which with unexcelled devotion she served and sacrificed, but years in which hours of shadow and victories outnumbered defeats."The day of death is better than the day of birth." "To go to the house of mourning better than to go to the house of mirth." I would not live always. "To die is gain." "O Death, where is thy sting; grave, where is thy victory?"Theodore N. Compton,

Two Would Not Go Together.
A certain deacon was one of the best of men, but by nature very irascible.
A cow was so exceedingly disorderly,
as the deacon was attempting to milk her one morning, that the old Adam got the better of him and he vented his excited feelings in a volley of execrations very undecorous in their char-

on the scene and announced his pres-cow."

A Message To Women

Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your back would break, when your head aches constantly, you are nervous, depressed and suffer from those dreadful bearing down pains, don't forget that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the safest and surest remedy, and has carried hundreds of women safely through this critical period.

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance. I suffered from a female trouble and always had pains in my back, and at times was very weak.

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day. Everybody is asking me what I am doing and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may publish this letter if you wish and I hope others who have the same complaint will see it and get health from your medicine as I did."—Mrs. A. HORNUNG, 91 Stanton St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Was A Blessing To This Woman.

So. RICHMOND, VA.—"I was troubled with a bearing down pain and a female weakness and could not stand long on my feet. Of all the medicines I took nothing helped me like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now regular and am getting along fine. I cannot praise the Compound too much. It has been a blessing to me and I hope it will be to other women."—Mrs. D. TYLER, 23 West Clopton St., South Richmond, Va.

Pains in Side, Could Hardly Stand.

Lodi, Wis.—"I was in a bad condition, suffering from a female trouble, and I had such pains in my sides I could hardly move. Before I had taken the whole of one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt better, and now I am well and can do a good day's work. I tell everybody what your medicine has done for me."—Mrs. JOHN THOMSON, Lodi, Wisconsin.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

To Winter In North.

Secretary Daniels announces that when the marines are removed from Vera Cruz instead of sending them to Pensacola and Gautanomo he will have them taken to the League Island navy yard at Philadelphia. Mr. Daniels said he had decided the marines were entitled to a period of rest before their return to routine duties in the southern stations.

Work of Burglar.

While the family was absent from home a short while Thursday night about 9 o'clock a burglar entered the residence of H. Bohn, No. 209 North Liberty street, by raising a window. The thief secured a valuable purse containing $1.50 which was lying on a dresser. Nothing else was missing.

Marriages on Increase.

Notwithstanding the departure of young men to the war, marriages in England and Wales for the quarter ending October 1 were 1.2 per cent greater than the mean rate for the ten preceding quarters, the rate per thousand being 17.4.

Fire on Rembrandt Not Set by Germans.

Newport News, Va., Nov. 11.—Capt. Edlin of the British steamer Rembrandt, damaged by fire Monday 200 miles off Cape Henry, issued a statement here tonight denying reports that the ship had been fired by German members of the crew. It had been said that Capt. Edlin's report to the ship's agents declared that Germans started the fire.

Sixty-seven of the ship's cargo of 800 horses, being shipped to France, were burned to death.

Our Missing Battleships.

Secretary Daniels ordered the division of operations of the Navy Department to get into communication as quickly as possible with the cruisers North Carolina and Tennessee to learn if one of them had met with a mishap, as had been rumored during the day. They are supposed to be in Turkish waters.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

For Tobacco In The Black Patch District.

The assurance given the state department at Washington by the English government that shipments of tobacco bound for German or Austrian ports would not be molested, removes the last tangible obstacle to an active tobacco season in Western Kentucky and Tennessee and farmers, dealers and citizens generally are correspondingly jubilant.

The one thing which has tied up the market in the dark belt of Kentucky and Tennessee since the European war broke out was the danger in risking tobacco on the high seas. While it had never been declared contraband of war, yet it was subject to seizure and it was feared that it would not be allowed to go by. For that reason very little has been shipped. Had this state of affairs continued the new crop would have been more or less a drag and prices would have been reduced. Further, those farmers who were unwilling to take the prices offered and desired to hold their crops would have been forced to prize the tobacco. This would have been undesirable for the loose floor method or the direct sale to prizing concerns, has largely superseded the old way of prizing and farmers are loathe to go back to the old form.

VICK'S GROUP AND SALVE
"JUST RUB IT ON"

Comparative Goodness.

"Better" is a sweet, comforting little word, I think—a modest, unassuming little word that means a great deal more than she seems to express. She stands in line with her two sisters, Good and Best. I remember that in grammar school it was hard for me to learn that better came after good. I always wanted to say gooder and goodest. After I got used to the comparison, however, it was moderately easy for me, and I always liked the middle term more than the rest. It is so easy and no more than you should be to good, and it is so hard, and somehow so snobbish, to be best. Better seems commendable and easy to reach and rather satisfactory.—The Christian Herald.

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—which of over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom.

Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's Middle Ages, the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the ages of the Crusades, the days of feudalism, and the Renaissance; through the Renaissance up to contemporaneous history, which Prof. Grouse completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past lie the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place which the press is not enough to tell the day news papers which they are not enough to tell the day news papers. Your ability to comprehend, condense, and discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.

MUCH VIRTUE IN THE GRAPE CHANGED HIS LIFE'S WORK

None of the Fruits More Potent in the Effects Upon the Human System.

Since the dawn of creation the grape has played a part in the history of mankind. We find mention of unfermented grape juice in the earliest recorded history. In Greece and Persia grapes were made into a sirup in order that they might be preserved as long out of season as possible.

The grape contains many health-giving elements. Both the water and sugar of the grape require no digestion, so can readily be taken into the blood. The mineral elements in the fruit clear, strengthen and cleanse the liver, kidneys and intestines. Some one has aptly said that if the grape were a medicine more could not be claimed for it.

Grape sugar is one of the most important elements contained in the fruit. Aluminous matter, lime, iron, genuine cream of tartar, which is the natural salt of the grape, and vinous acid, which is similar to the malic acid of the apple, are also found. Indeed, there is no safer tonic in health or general ill health than the grape.

The grape is at its best when nipped by the frost. Those who have had the pleasure of breakfasting on cold grapes pulled from the vine on a frosty morning will, indeed, vote them a rare treat.

There is no more welcome addition to the preserve closet than grape juice.

CROP WASTE IS ENORMOUS

Diligent Gleaning Would Yield an Abundance of Good Food for the Hungry.

Ever since Ruth gleaned in the fields of Boaz there has been a lesson to all mankind that there is enough waste in the world to give all an honest living, if it were only diligently gleaned.

The other day, riding through the country, we noticed many bushels of dropped apples that were left to rot. Why, we thought, could not those apples be gathered and given to the poor? No reason, except there was no effort made to do it. We raise millions to send Bibles to the heathen; why not a few hundred to send those apples to the people who really need them. It would give lots of happiness and improve greatly the Christianity of those who do the gleanings and the distributing.

There are many fruits and vegetables in our orchards and gardens that are hardly marketable and yet would be good food to many people. Why might not the idle people be organized to gather up this food and scatter it among the poor? If an organization was formed to receive and distribute these gleanings there would, no doubt, be plenty brought in. There is plenty of good will, if it were only set in the grooves and started along.—Ohio State Journal

CHANGED HIS LIFE'S WORK

Aversion of Companion to Travel by Sea Led Sir Henry Layard Into Bible Lands.

The first man to undertake extensive and important explorations among the ruins of Babylon and Nineveh, says the Milwaukee Sentinel, was Sir Henry Layard, who was born in Paris ninety-seven years ago. It was due to his friendship for a young man who had great fear of seasickness that he was led to begin what was to be his life work. Layard was educated and started for Ceylon to practice his profession.

He was accompanied by another lad who had a horror of the ocean, and Layard readily agreed when his companion suggested that they make the trip by land across Europe, Asia Minor, Persia and India. It was while on this journey that Layard was inspired with the ambition to delve among the ruins of the ancient cities of Asia. "When I first beheld the mounds of Nineveh," he wrote, "a great longing came over me to learn what was hidden within them." He yielded to the desire, and largely at his own expense carried on those excavations at Babylon and Nineveh which were chiefly responsible for the discovery of the lost records and reliques of a people who lived 3,000 years ago. Many cities and palaces, including the palace of King Nebuchadnezzar, were unearthed by Layard and the most valuable treasures in the British museum serve to commemorate his name and fame.

HOPPERS FOR FEEDING

Lessens Labor of Caring for Large Number of Youngsters.

Illustrations Show Three Styles of Devices—Box Tray Can Be Subdivided Into Different Compartments—Much Food Saved.

An article written by Mr. Paul P. Bliss on the subject of "Feeding Chicks in Independent Colonies."

Fig. A

Hopper for Dry Seasons.

recommends that the most practical method of feeding is to practice the greater portion of it by the "hopper system." As usual, Mr. Bliss is right, for not only does this lessen the labor of caring for a large number of youngsters when reared in independent colonies but it also assures the growing youngsters an abundance of food stuff correctly proportioned at any and all times that their appetite demands it, writes Russell F. Palmer in Independent Farmer.

The illustrations give the outline of three styles of hoppers.

Figure A shows a hopper box with the rain protector in front. This is not practical for chicks weighing over two pounds each, but is a splendid article for youngsters weighing from one to two pounds. This box is floored and should be from 24 to 30 inches deep. It should always be set facing the north and it does not need to be protected by a shed roof or building. A box tray five inches high, in appearance similar to a trunk till should be made to fit inside of this box and should be in width one-third the width of the box. This tray can be subdivided as often as desired, thus making different compartments within the one till. For each compartment cut a piece of hardware or wire cloth, which will fit inside of the compartment without binding. Fill each compartment about two-thirds full with whatever dry mash, beef scraps, oyster shell grit or any other food stuff you desire to supply to the youngsters and place the wire cloth on top.

Figure B shows another style of outdoor hopper, practical for use for chicks ranging from a weight of one pound up to maturity. This hopper can be successfully used under the protection of a fairly good sized tree or in exceptionally dry seasons one can risk it out in the open without fear of much loss to the food from rain, if the lids are built to project a great distance out over the hopper trough below. Both the trough and inside of the hopper can be partitioned so that mixed grain, dry mash, grit and other forms of food stuff can be supplied from the same hopper if desired.

Fig. C shows a very practical hopper, which can be built on almost any dimensions. The dotted line shows where a piece of tin must be placed permanently to assist in feeding the food stuff into the feed trough. The hopper has proved very successful in eliminating the wasting of food. It should be placed under cover to insure against beating rains getting into the feed trough.

Best Cover Crops.

Rye is one of the best cover crops for vegetable growers. It grows well in all types of soil. It often thrives under rather adverse conditions. It is easily started and may be sown quite late in the fall.

When rye is used for a cover crop or for green manurial purposes plenty of seed should be sown. It is customary to sow from two to four bushels to the acre. When the larger quantity of seed is used a dense growth will result and the addition of humus will be much more than from a light seeding.

Nitrate of Soda.

Nitrate of soda is often beneficial to late cabbage when applied as top-dressings late in the summer or early in the fall. If there is an abundant supply of soil moisture and the cabbage has a stunted appearance there is practically no uncertainty about the need of nitrogen.

The Manure Supply.

Look out for the manure supply that will be needed for the frames or greenhouses in the fall. It should

SURPRISED MR. BALL

DESERVED SCOLDING THAT WAS INDEFINITELY POSTPONED.

Father Knew He Was Late, But He Did Not Know of Happening That Made Family So Glad to Welcome Him.

"I never had chicken pie for supper," said Mrs. Ball, "but your father took that time to be late." "I looked at his watch. "And I know my husband's been down town to the stock. If I wasn't going along, I'd have been home half an hour ago."

"And you makes supper dishes so fast," marveled thirteen-year-old Marion.

The telephone bell rang and Tom took down the receiver. "Yes, this is Tom. No, he hasn't come home yet; is that so? Well? Yes, I'll call you as soon as he comes. Good-by."

He tried to speak unconcernedly as he faced his mother and sister. "It was Annie, and she wanted to speak with father—"

"What was she telling you about?" broke in Mrs. Ball.

The boy hesitated; then he met his mother's anxious eyes steadily. "She heard that a Myrtle Avenue car bumped into a Blossom street car. Nothing very serious, I imagine. Besides, you know father doesn't take that car once a year."

"Here he is!" cried Marion.

Tom shook his head. "Too tall for father. It's Mr. Stevenson. But who is this coming now?"

"Judge Daniels," whispered Mrs. Ball, faintly.

During the next 15 minutes several other late comers in turn roused and disappointed the hopes of the Ball. Then, quite unexpectedly, a familiar little figure came walking briskly up the avenue. Mrs. Ball sighed with relief, and hustled off to the kitchen while the children threw open the front door.

"I guess I'm pretty late," began Mr. Ball, meekly. He stopped in surprise as Tom politely helped him with his coat and Marion solicitously hung up his hat.

"Hurry up, Henry!" called Mrs. Ball, good-naturedly. "I've your favorite chicken pie for supper. It may be a little cold, but I thought it might taste good after a hard day's work."

"I tried to get that Myrtle Avenue car," began Mr. Ball a second time, "but I just missed it."

Marion's cool, red lips brushed his. "Now, father, don't stop to talk," she urged; "come and eat."

And the Ball family sat down jubilantly to partake of soggy, lukewarm chicken pie.—Youth's Companion.

American Corn at a French Palace.

Apropos of the visions of the second empire evoked by the visit of the former Empress Eugenie to Fontainebleau, Madame de Heigermann-Lindenrode, author of "In the Courts of Memory," relates an interesting account of her own gala visit to that palace. As the empress had expressed a wish to taste American corn, Madame de Heigermann brought some with her and tried to explain to the palace chef how to cook it—"en robe de chambre." But when it appeared it was still in husk and silk. "I tried," she says, "to make it less objectionable by unwrapping the cobs and cutting off the corn. Then I added butter and salt, and it was passed about; first, of course, to the emperor, who liked it very much; but the empress pushed her plate aside with a grimace, saying, 'I don't like it; it smells like a baby's flannels.' The emperor, seeing the crushed look on my face, raised his glass and said, with a kind glance at me, "Here's to the American corn!"

To Make a Barrel Filter.

A fine, unsoiled cask must be used for making a filter. Other necessities are a piece of fine brass wire cloth and a coarser wire cloth, each of a size sufficient to make a partition across the barrel. The coarser wire cloth is placed under the brass wire cloth to support it, and under both light cross frame of oak, to keep the wire from sagging. These are placed about three-quarters down the barrel and securely fastened in position. Then fill in upon the wire cloth about three inches in depth of clear, sharp sand then two inches of finely-broken charcoal without any dust. Then on the charcoal place four inches of clear, sharp sand. Fill up the barrel with water and draw from the foot where

MEN IN MIND IN HOPKINSVILLE

People of Prominence In The Pearl City of The Penny-royal.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH NO. 62.

R. E. Cooper, President of Hopkinsville Business Men's Association.

The successful termination of the negotiations conducted by President R. E. Cooper, of the Hopkinsville Tobacco Board of Trade, by which he enlisted the interest of Senator Ollie M. James, with the result that the Department of State has secured a trade agreement with the warring nations of Europe, concerning the shipment of tobacco, is but another instance of Mr. Cooper's superiority as a far-seeing business man. Just now the eyes of the whole country are on Hopkinsville, as the little city in the tobacco district of Kentucky that led and put through an international movement to make possible the shipment of tobacco in neutral bottoms to countries whose commerce is at a standstill.

Last summer when Mr. Cooper was attending the cotton conference in Washington, he took the first steps to open the foreign markets to tobacco and last month when Senator James spoke here, finding the time ripe for action, he made an engagement with him to talk the matter over with him. Going to Marion one day last week, he laid his plan before the Senator, whose quick mind at once grasped its possibilities and he proceeded at once to Washington and with his characteristic energy, put the proposition through in a week. With a definite promise that tobacco can be marketed abroad as usual, the tobacco growers of Kentucky and Tennessee are rejoicing over the unexpected turn in their affairs. Mr. Cooper is being credited with this achievement, not only in Hopkinsville, but throughout the whole Black Patch and Hopkinsville is recognized on two continents as a town that does things and whose business men are ever alert and resourceful.

Robert Emmett Cooper is a native of Christian county and has been a business man in Hopkinsville for 27 years. He was born in Lafayette, Feb. 6, 1864, and at 15 went to work in the dry goods store of his father, R. J. Cooper, then the leading merchant of Lafayette. Seven years of this found him a well-trained business man, of good morals, sound health and lofty ambition. Desiring to see the world a little, he went to Texas for a year but concluded that Kentucky was good enough for him and in 1887 came to Hopkinsville to embark in the tobacco business with his uncle, W. E. Ragsdale. Early in 1888 the firm of Ragsdale, Cooper & Co., was formed and continued until Mr. Ragsdale's death in 1899. The firm then became R. E. Cooper & Co., which still continues. In 1908 the firm of R. E. & W. D. Cooper was also organized for the sale of tobacco on the loose floor.

Mr. Cooper quickly assumed leadership in the tobacco business and for ten years or more has been president of the board of trade. He was president of the first commercial club organized in the city and has been president of the present Hopkinsville Business Men's Association since its organization. Aside from his tobacco business, Mr. Cooper is largely interested in other business enterprises.

He is president of the Meacham Contracting Co., engaged in concrete construction, and doing railroad construction work in the South on a large scale. He is vice president of Nutmeg Poison.

A German medical journal, the Munich Medizinische Wochenschrift, gives a curious story of two cases of poisoning from nutmeg, an article in daily use in food and drink. Two servant girls partook of a mixture made up of two ground nutmegs, a small quantity of powdered cinnamon and half a liter, about one pint, of hot wine. One girl drank the greater part, the other but a small portion. Both were taken to the hospital unconscious. The one who drank the greater part remained in a stupor for three days and it was not until the fifth day that she recovered her senses. The other, who like the first developed failure of memory, vertigo and somnolence, was not so long in recovery. Nutmeg contains an etherial oil that is a recognized poison.

Mean Hit at Noble Game.

A lunatic was being escorted to an asylum some distance away, and consequently journeyed to it by train. It was raining hard, and as they passed a large field the lunatic noticed several men grouped together. Some of them had umbrellas raised over their heads, and these were looking at two men "putting." Turning to the attendant by his side, the "soft" one remarked: "What are the people doin'?" "Playing golf," answered his burly guardian. "Then," said the other, after a pause, "hadn't we better stop for them?"
